Tolbukhin Garrison

3. A four-hour tour of south Tolbukhin revealed no barracks either on the road to Stalin or on the road to Balchik. The only barracks seen is located on the west side of the railroad line between the roads to Silistra and Vladimirovo. It is 800 meters long and 500-600 meters wide. Most of the barracks area has no buildings. Some modern buildings are located off the road to Silistra, while some old buildings are located off the road to Vladimirovo. Large stocks of bales of hay and straw covered with tarpaulin were seen off the railroad line.
4. About ten armed rifle men and an artillery officer were seen leaving the barracks at the Silistra road exit. The sentry at the Vladimirovo road exit wore an artillery uniform.
5. Not much activity was observed in Tolbukhin in the evening. One infantry, four artillery, and ten Air Force officers were seen in the streets of Tolbukhin. Patrol duty was performed by one Air Force officer and two airmen. Several Frontier Troops and MVR (Ministry of Internal Affairs) men were also noticed in Tolbukhin. Below is a sketch of the Tolbukhin garrison.
